

WHAT YOU ARE GIVING UP!

I wanted you to know how much you are giving up for your fake relationship with someone you have never even met in real life!

Your family & friends have always been here for you, but this time it is simply too painful for us to watch you destroy your life over a fantasy that is simply not true.

We all can see the truth of your situation, but you are living in a bubble of denial, clinging to a hope that this will somehow become a fairytale with a happy ending. We all know you are being scammed, but you can't see it.

We can't bare to watch you destroy yourself and your life.

You need to remember this the next holiday when your family is not there with you, and neither is your imaginary lover!

We love you but we will not be here anymore to watch how this ends.

Good luck with your life and your scammer!

Your Family & Friends

Let us know when you return to reality, so we can come back into your life!

